Serving Out of Love

Caritas Identity and Mission

PUBLICATIONS and Translations

It is our great hope that the Chinese translation of Serving Out of Love - Caritas Identity and Mission will give the Chinese community more profound understanding of our work of charity in the church and society.

As Pope Francis said, "This is why we must avoid assimilating the work of charity with philanthropic efficacy or with planning efficiency..." he stated, reiterating "that charity is not an idea or a pious feeling, but it is an experiential encounter with Christ; it is the desire to live with the heart of God who does not ask us to have a generic love, affection, solidarity, etc. for the poor, but to meet Himself in them."

International Volunteer Program Northern Thailand

For almost 40 years, Caritas Taiwan has been facilitating the teacher and student volunteers to the villages in Northern Thailand to give teachers training to the local teachers in the Chinese schools. Several volunteers have been going back every summer to do volunteer work.

This summer 2019, the sending off of volunteers was graced by the presence of Mr. Lin - Deputy Director of Overseas Chinese Affairs who especially thanked Caritas Taiwan for its care for the culture and education of the Chinese compatriots in the region. He also said that only religious and selfless love can continue serving in such a way.

In mid-August, a group of teacher volunteers conducted a seven-days summer camp in Mainland China. The camp was attended by 40 children and teenagers who delved with the theme Freedom and Value, Love and Life.

The volunteers and participants though made several changes of plans and adjustments due to unavoidable circumstances. Everyone discovered and learned how to be creative to adjust to the situation.

In spite of the limited space or venue and the heat of summer, the participants showed a great appreciation to the teaching of value, faith and freedom.

The teachers also observed the growth of the children as they share their highlight of the day. The atmosphere of the group has turned the indifference to cooperation and unity.

Work with the Migrants Share the Journey

Inspired by Share the Journey to welcome and to listen to the migrants, Caritas Taiwan has renewed hope as it continues to advocate the welfare of the migrant workers in Taiwan that hailed from Vietnam, Thailand, Philippines and Indonesia. In 2019, together with the Migrants Empowerment Network in Taiwan, we continue to appeal for the safety of the workers and to break the cruel web of broker system.

While the Vietnamese fishermen face their own struggle of not having a decent place to rest because they are all confined in the small fishing boat banker. Fr. Thiet, a Vietnamese Scalabrinian priest and a Daughters of Charity sister accompanied them and distributed clothing.
